LAMAR STUDENTS

"Return of the Native,"
Written by Instructor and Given by Pupils.

In the school auditorium Friday afternoon the Lamar students gave an original play, "The Return of the Native," which was written by Miss Althea Howren, instructor in history at the Lamar school. The playlet was in one act, six scenes, and nine scenes to the square inch. FATHER GIVES UP
FIVE CHILDREN

Wife of Bisbee Miner Declares Intention of Following Babes.

Bisbee, Ariz., Feb. 12.—Five of the eight children who were taken to the children's home at Los Angeles by Dr. Gunnett belong to the family of Sam Hill, a miner, who was arrested a few days ago on the charge of vagrancy and brutality against his wife and his children in justice. High's court. Mrs. Hill showed much emotion and said she would go to live at Los Angeles as soon as she could get money enough to pay the expenses.

A crowd was at the depot when Mr. Gunnett left with the five children. Sandwiches, candies and clothes were given to the little ones by kind hearted persons.

William Gerard will be here Sunday and will make a speech of a religious character. Mr. Gerard, who was slain under Admiral Dewey at the battle of Manila, has worked in many missions in different parts of the world.

Mrs. Joseph Sowle, a well-known pioneer settler of Bisbee, died Feb. 10. At the monthly meeting of the Country club directors it was decided to beautify the ground of the club and to send invitations for big matches of all kinds of sports.

furnishings of the rooms and dormitories and in the buildings which would be erected. It will be a surprise, no doubt to many to know that this year, the Military Institute will put into the lines of business between $40,000 and $50,000 because of the improvements made and the amount that will be spent in its maintenance.

Public Schools Bank High.
"I believe that there are many in El Paso who do not appreciate the excellent work done by the public schools of the city; there is no question but that they rank high and I have known many of the teachers and I have been impressed with their earnestness and enthusiasm in their work; but the public schools do not present to cover the ground of the private schools—the boarding school where the heart to heart life is lived between teachers and pupils from the beginning of a school year to its close; where the individual needs can be looked after and where every pupil does not have to go through the process of being molded in exactly the same patterns as every other pupil regardless of talents, tastes, or inclinations; the individual attention and the individual training are what count most and these things appeal so much to a thoughtful parent that he is willing to pay the difference in the price to give his child the benefit of them."

What Literary Digest Says.
"In conclusion, I will state that this paragraph was taken from the Literary Digest in a well written article on the work of a private school. More and more have parents of these years come to the conviction that public schools, with all of their excellencies, have serious drawbacks—especially when one can afford to send a child to a private school. They are in many cases over crowded; individual attention is then difficult to secure; each child is treated very much as every other child is treated and hence individuality is not taken into account nor are particular talents cultivated."

Then, why not a school for girls in El Paso? There is every argument for it and absolutely none against it."

SQUAW BAPLES COUNSEL
IN ASSAULT CASE.

Is Arrested and Charged with Perjury, But Could Not Be Indicted on the Charge.

Douglas, Ariz., Feb. 12.—It takes an Indian squaw to match a corporation official in evasive answers when on the stand in court. Oha, an aged squaw of the northern reservation, was put on the stand recently to give testimony regarding an alleged assault made by a young Indian upon the squaw's niece, aged only nine years.

In her testimony the Indian woman denied all previous statements she had made, and when pinned down to telling her own story she evaded every turn of the prosecution by indulging in monotonous "ha-mug-me" "I don't know."

Line
See Them

Will begin today, Feb. 12th, and continue till Feb. 25th, a Clear-Up Sale of all winter ready-to-wear goods for men, boys, ladies, misses and children. In many cases these goods will be sold for less than the wholesale price, and in saying this we don't wish to have you think we can sell goods for less than we pay for them. Only in such cases as this when it comes at the end of the season does it pay us to take a loss and close all odds and ends rather than carry them over. This is a straight, fair proposition. There are many things on sale not mentioned here in winter goods at from 25 to 40 percent reduction. We offer some big staple values for three days.

admit persons that can't pass through the New York port. And yet I may not vote.

El Paso Made Her a Suffragist.

"I say that El Paso has made me a suffragist. They have made me spend $3,000 without an option from me. I could not vote against or for it. But this ignorant nigger, and that untutored Mexican voted. I wanted North Oregon street, where I lived, paved, and I asked for it many times. But no, they haven't done it. Instead, they have made me pave South Oregon street where a lot of niggers and Chinamen live. Is that right?"

Has to Borrow Tax Money.

"This is what has occurred by it all. It ends in failure. My tenants have failed, two of them, while one was burned out. They couldn't pay the rent I asked and I couldn't pay the taxes because they failed to pay the rent. I had to charge them the rent to pay my taxes and improve my property. One tenant offers me 20 percent on what he owes. And now I must borrow money; I am negotiating for it now; I have to borrow money to pay my taxes. And they won't let me vote."

"Over in London I saw 70,000 men unemployed, standing in a line waiting for bread. I saw women bound and chained because they believed as I believe, and as every woman and man will believe some time. But they will not arrest us in America. Yes, America is just as advanced. The time has not come here, that's all. Roosevelt will be elected again in 1912 and in 1916 women will vote. That? He is a jellyfish."

Poor Poorer, Rich Richer.

With the Socialists, Mrs. Clardy believes that the poorer are becoming poorer and the rich richer. She has much to say on the high cost of living, much of sympathy for the young man and his $15 a week, his difficulty to live well, his impossibility to marry. She points out that if the poor will vote against the rise of taxes the property owner will be able to give cheaper rents. "But the money," says Mrs. Clardy, "is going to the Rockefeller and the Vanderbilts. That's where it is going."

"No, no, no," says Mrs. Clardy to the stock question, "Will not woman's suffrage destroy the feminine-debauch woman?" Mrs. Clardy is very sure it would not. "The woman will fight for the home. Has not that been shown in this prohibition movement? She can not be bought with money—by a prettiness."

TAFI MAY GIVE FEDERAL JUDGEMENT TO DEMOCRAT
Washington, D. C., Feb. 12.—When asked today whether he would hold a further conference with leading Texans of both parties before deciding to name the successor to the late federal judge D. E. Bryant, president Taft indicated that although he may confer with Lyon and others, he would endeavor to select the man best fitted for the position, whether Republican or Democrat.

BIG FOUNDRY CONCERN GOES INTO BANKRUPTCY
New York, N. Y., Feb. 12.—The Central Foundry company, capitalized at $14,000,000, which manufactures cast iron soil pipes and fittings, went into the hands of a receiver today. The creditors allege liabilities of four and a half millions.

As a story teller Lincoln was irrefragable. He liked to hear a story as well as to tell one which is the mark of the true story teller. He would rather sit by the hear and "swap yarns" as he called it than to go to a dance and gallop around the floor. His humor was as contagious as it was wholesome. He never told a story to wound anyone's feelings and his repartee was never personal. Tall, awkward and ungainly, he knew the pain of a personal thrust, although he enjoyed telling of his awkwardness and lack of beauty as much as he did hearing a new story.

His Early Years.
Lincoln was a Hoosier. The early years of his life, the years when the impressions were being recorded on the tablets of the brain that afterwards molded his character, were spent in the valley of the Ohio where men, rough rugged men, but real men nevertheless, lived next to nature without ostentation and with a simple sincerity. His first glimpse of the law was in a revised statute of Indiana. His first debates took place in the Gentryville village store, the forum for the countryside. His first knowledge of nature was gained in the purple and green woods of the bottom lands. There he heard the call of the meadow lark and the bob white, the call of the wild that beckoned to him to come and sit at the feet of the greatest teacher, to commune with nature in her element.

The Hoosier.
Abraham Lincoln—"Abe" Lincoln sounds so much more like the man—was a Hoosier. He was human, as human as the little store keeper who went to Washington just to see "Mister Lincoln." His love for humanity was equaled only by his love of country, the country for which he gave his life. Mark Twain said of the Lincoln birthplace that it was the "little farm that raised a man." Rather, it was the little farm where a man was born. To Indiana belongs the honor of rearing the man and to Illinois the honor of giving him to the nation.

Joe Spivey tendered his resignation as city detective to mayor Sweeney today, and announces that he will shortly engage in business for himself. Spivey has been a member of the department for two years and for several months occupied the position of fine collector in the place of Tom Cain, who took a leave of absence. On February 1 Barney Early was appointed to the position of fine collector and Spivey resumed his position as city detective.
